Jersey City, May 22, 2020—Walt Sapronov is the managing shareholder of Sapronov & Associates, P.C., and the IDR is honored to be joined by him on this week’s episode of “Connecting Bridges and Borders.” Professor David Weiss and Walt Sapronov discuss the depth of 5G and debunk some of the rumors that have been circulating as the new generation of telecommunications is being integrated into our daily lives.

The term “5G” causes some confusion as it is a relatively new concept, but Sapronov, a telecommunications expert, provides thorough and meaningful insight on the topic. Spronov explains that 5G promises “exponentially more bandwidth than we have seen before” which paves the way for delivering significantly more mobile data. While this might initially come across as unassuming, Sapronov admits, he shares that 5G will impact the lives of individuals globally because it will reshape and advance our world through means of technology, automobiles, and many other areas of human life.

Sapronov is quick to address fears about 5G and explain the myth in those rumors. As an expert in the field, Sapronov effectively refutes common arguments against 5G and outlines the reality of the transformative potential of 5G.
