

DAY OF THE DEAD

STUDENT CONTEST

We are inviting the NJCU community to participate in the First NJCU. Altars, Catrinas and Calaveras Student Competition, an event celebrating Latin American Day of the Dead.

Students can submit individual or group projects or digital work to compete in one of these categories:

1. Art projects: submissions could include Day of the Dead alters, sculpture, photography, drawings, or paintings addressing one or several aspects of this celebration. Alters and Catrinas (an elegantly dressed skeleton figure) are suggested themes.
2. Music and/or poetry projects: In Mexico, the term Calaveras refers to the use of poetry or music as a venue for political critique or satire. Submissions can focus on critique or satire of a particular relevant Latinx figure or event affecting Latinx communities in the US.

DEADLINE FOR REGISTRATION/SUBMISSION : OCTOBER 29TH
