In an ever-increasingly interconnected world, New Jersey is poised to become a viable venue for development of international businesses, particularly family businesses. At the same time, New Jersey is at the forefront of becoming a hub of dispute resolution of business conflict. New Jersey recently passed the International Arbitration, Mediation and Conciliation Act, which makes mediated settlements binding as if it was a judgment of the Court.

This multi-disciplinary program is offered to accountants and tax advisors, attorneys, estate planners, financial advisors and wealth managers, mediators, and small to mid-sized businesses, many of which are family businesses, who are interested in developing and promoting the growth of such businesses in New Jersey. Family businesses represent 80-90% of businesses worldwide with a growing number of them being internationalized family businesses. These businesses need cost-effective and efficient ways of dealing with disputes with suppliers and customers and also with intergenerational issues. Our speakers will provide information that will help your businesses and your customers' and clients' businesses meet these challenges and increase your chance of survival of a thriving business well into the future. This program offers an excellent networking opportunity amongst and between our diverse panel of experts and attendees.

Professional continuing education credits for accountants and attorneys is pending.
