NJCU COMPLIANCE WITH TITLE IX

A Campus Environment Free From Discrimination

Under Title IX, discrimination on the basis of sex includes sexual harassment or sexual violence, such as rape, sexual assault, sexual battery, or sexual coercion.

TITLE IX IS A FEDERAL CIVIL RIGHTS LAW AND PROVIDES THAT...

"No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

REPORTING POSSIBLE TITLE IX VIOLATIONS

Persons who wish to report possible Title IX violations have options:

- Notify a designated Deputy Coordinator or Title IX Coordinator.
- Contact the NJCU Public Safety Department.

While the University encourages reporting to both, the choice belongs to each individual, as does the decision about whether to file criminal charges.

TITLE IX COMPLIANCE

As an academic community, we share responsibility to foster and maintain a safe campus community free from discrimination. With regard to reports of incidents of sexual violence and other conduct in violation of Title IX, all employees (with the exception of Counseling Center, Health & Wellness Center and the Speicher-Rubin Women's Center) are required to report any such incidents which come to their attention to a Title IX Coordinator.
